Exhibition

The exhibition is coming up very soon now and will be a great chance to see all the lovely quilts that have been made by the group. We have been busy advertising the event so hopefully we will have a good number of visitors to admire them as well.

Please read the e mails carefully that will be sent out on how and when to deliver your quilts etc and make sure you have a hanging sleeve where appropriate and your name on all the quilts and entries.

There are a few places left for helping in the kitchen and stewarding, please see if you could help with these, we know a few of you have offered to “float” and help out as needed please let Julie know when you will be available so we know who and when we can contact.

The raffle tickets have sold well and we will be selling them again at Avenue nurseries on the 22nd and 23rd October, if anyone could help on the afternoon of Sunday 23rd then please let Jennie know.

All raffle tickets and monies need to be handed in now please.

The raffle hampers are looking good, there are a few things still needed if anyone could help:

Chocolates, Prosecco or sparkling wine, Nice nuts, savoury item like chutney or tin of salmon, or anything else that you might have suitable particularly for the food & drink and pamper hampers, others being sewing and gardening.

Do any of our long term members know what happened to the club tablecloth that used to cover the welcome desk?

We are known for selling lovely cake at our exhibitions, we have a few offered but could do with a couple more.

Does anyone have a cash box they could lend us for the weekend? I have one but five are needed.

Website news

Firstly, thank you to Becky for looking after the website until recently. She is now moving to Devon to start a new adventure which we hope works out well for her.

The web site is now on a new platform which is going to make it much easier to update.

So far our website has been rebuilt as a near copy with a few tweaks and will have further tweaks and changes as time allows and ideas of improvements come in.

We are working on the photo galleries to be directly on the site along with an archive of the newsletters. The photos will take quite a while however as there are hundreds of them to upload and sort out.

It was nice to see that shortly after the contact page was rebuilt we had someone email us through it referencing a quilt that had made which proved the new contact page is working!
